

Negative: Summer 2007 Festival Tour

Part 4.

Tammerfest 11. July 2007

The fans were waiting for Negative's gig outside the venue days before the gig, even though there was no confirmation about Jonne's condition; Will he be able to perform or sing because of the cold he had.

The fans were really hoping that the gig would take place and Tammerfest seemed to be the most wanted festival this summer. Anyhow, everyone pointed out that the most important thing of all, is that Jonne would get better and because of that, the true fans wouldn't have minded if the gig had gotten cancelled.

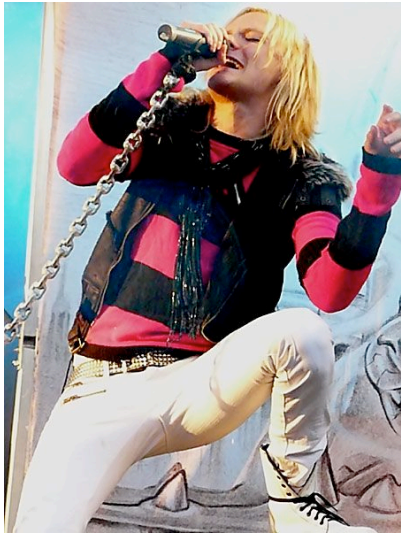

When the festival gates were opened, the fans finally believed that Negative will definitely play. The slight rain fall didn't ruin anything and only a few people decided to follow the gig from farther away, where there was some shelter from the rain.

The gig in Tampere was really important for Negative and so, had the gig been at any other location, it would have probably been cancelled. The performance was lively and exiting. Almost every band member found familiar faces or relatives from the crowd. Everything seemed to be working really well and even Jonne sounded perfect regardless of the bad cold.

The band had no extra energy to hang out at the venue for long after the gig. Everyone handed out a few autographs and then went out their own ways. At the end of the show, we saw very many roses thrown to the audience. One lucky fan even got a whole bunch of lovely roses.

Setlist:

- My my, Hey hey*
- Frozen to lose*
- Glory of The shame*
- Fading yourself*
- Moment of our love*
- Swans*
- Still Alive*
- Planet of the sun*
- Naive*
- Until you're mine*
- After all*

Sinners night
In my heaven

Pics & Text:
Oona Siltanen

Layout:
Maiju Sulkava

(c) Negative

